Save the Light

The daylight scheme seems to be growing in popularity. England, Denmark and Sweden have all adopted it. In Alberta, Calgary has already put law in force, and High River commences May 31st.

The saving in cost of artificial light is enormous, and these are the days when economy is patriotism. Why not try it in Claresholm? The following from the High River Times will show how it was brought about there: "Through the effort of Mr. Fred Blake, of High River Hardware Co., the signatures of every business man in our town has been attached to a petition which will be presented to Mayor Smith and members of town council at their next meeting, asking that action be taken by that body for the passing of a bylaw in our town for the adoption of Daylight Saving Law. The idea is that every household in town and district should be in the evening of May 31st put their clocks and watches on one hour, and on the morning of June 1st and following mornings get up at the usual hour. One hour's sleep will be lost, but that can be made up by going to bed an hour earlier than usual."

If the members of the district who trade in High River will also advance their clocks, there need not be a hitch of any kind. Stores will close one hour earlier, according to standard time. The daylight saving measure is being adopted by Britain, Holland, France, and many cities in Canada have inaugurated the plan, and in every instance it has proven very beneficial to all concerned."

Extension Work and School Fairs

The Provincial Department of Agriculture is this year carrying on a new line of extension work in the province. At six different centres school fairs will be held this fall. Claresholm is one of these centres, and in 10 schools in this district the pupils have been given garden seeds, flower seeds, potatoes, and eggs for hatching. These seeds and potatoes are to be grown by the pupils in their own garden at their own homes, and the poultry is to be raised by the scholars at home.

The products grown in the children are to be exhibited at a school fair to be held at the Agricultural School early in September. Each school will be considered a unit in itself in making the awards of prizes. That is, the pupils in a school are competing against each other in growing their gardens and raising their chickens, then each school is to be in competition with each other school for honors.

Prizes will also be awarded for the best hand fed feed and dairy calves, the best ground and butter broken corn, the best kind of wheat, oats and barley, the best exhibit of hand-picked green beans, and corn. Young men will also be offered for chicken and setting, and the school will compete for prizes in collecting of weeds and insects.

The schools are being supplied with drying pans and mounting paper for making the weed collection, and killing bottles, pins and boxes for the insect collection.

Prizes are also offered for piglets and many of the pupils have quite a collection of tails already.

H. W. Scott of the Agricultural School is in charge of the work in the Claresholm district. He reports that the seeds have all been distributed and that the pupils have their gardens in.

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear Editor: We are being urged on every hand to study and practice economy. The day light saving scheme now in operation in many countries affords an opportunity to try out our loyalty by economizing in one of God's most liberal gifts.

As far as we can discover, wherever it has been tried it has given great satisfaction. England has considered it for about 8 years and at last has put forward their time pieces one hour. Germany adopted the new schedule on May 1st, and France, Holland, Denmark, Sweden and lately Norway's regulation came into effect on May 22nd, giving all north Europe a saving day, light-an economy which will be helpful to everyone and would not injure the finances of the lighting plant. Our council at its next meeting could pass this by-law and test it for the summer months which are left and request the rural contributors to this town to put on their time pieces one hour. Why should Claresholm be behind the times? Everybody talk it up, see the council about it. Winnipeg and other cities are trying it, and Calgary so near to us issued their proclamation in May and their official city time is one hour ahead of mountain time.

We believe it would be a good thing for our town. Our citizens would rise and start their business one hour earlier without knowing it and shut down correspondingly.

We would retire earlier and thus save our lighting systems, give one hour less work to our lighting system, and enjoy this reform with all possible speed.

Yours truly,
J. W. H.

Mr. Editor:—Can you tell me if there is a pound keeper in town? If there is one he is in name only, and for all practical purposes he is useless. Complaints of damage done by straying cattle and hogs, laid before the officials, receive absolutely no attention, and the work of destruction goes on day and night without let or hindrance. While this state of things is allowed to go on there is no sense in planting a garden. The by-law relating to stray cattle, in fact, nullifies as well as checked in the wastepaper basket, till such time as we can appoint officials that will enforce it.

One Who Has Suffered

Ed. note:—Mr. W. W. McAllister is the pound keeper, and we think if our correspondent will see this very obliging gentleman, that he will take steps to impound the hogs and cattle that are doing so much damage.

We have also had complaints regarding a miscreant town cat that destroyed some prize chickens of Mr. E. Moffat's and some much valued kittens belonging to Mrs. Haffner. If the town authorities won't arm the pound-keeper with a shot gun he might soon clean out these miscreants and make us all better tempered.

RED CROSS

A business meeting of the Women's Institute and Red Cross will be held Saturday, June 3rd, 3 p.m., in the Red Cross room.

The following letters have been received by the society:

Dear Madam:—Thank you so much for the very nice shipment of supplies which are badly needed at the present time.

Everything you most satisfactory and I have nothing to suggest in regard to any of the articles sent.

I also beg to acknowledge with thanks the generous donation of $50.00 to the "Prisoners of War Fund."

Please convey our grateful thanks to your members for their generosity.

—Mary E. Waagen.

The House Fly Danger

House flies are now recognized as most dangerous carriers of the germs of such diseases as typhoid fever, infantile diarrhoea, tuberculosis, etc. From filth and decaying materials, they carry infection to the house and to the food which we eat.

The best method to exterminate flies is to prevent their breeding. House-flies breed in decaying or decomposing vegetable and animal matter and in excrement. Stable refuse is especially attractive to them. In cities this should be stored in dark fly-proof receptacles and should be regularly removed within six days in summer. Farm manure should also be removed within the same time and either spread on the fields or stored at a distance of not less than a quarter mile from a house or dwelling. Manure piles may be treated with borax, using three-fifths of a pound to every ten feet of manure. Scatter the dry borax principally around the sides and edges of the pile and wash in with water.

Kitchen refuse is a favorite breeding place for flies, and great care should be taken to keep garbage cans tightly covered. The contents should be buried or burnt at once, if possible. If it cannot be disposed of at once it should be sprinkled with borax, as described above, or with chlorine of lime.

Windows and doors should be screened to keep flies out of the house. Milk and other foods should be covered with muslin or other netting. It is especially important to keep flies out of sick rooms and to prevent the spread of disease by this means.

To Kill Flies in Houses

Mix two table-spoonsfuls (one ounce) of 40 per cent formalin with one pint (16 ounces) of cold water of milk and water. This mixture should be exposed in shallow plates, with a piece of bread placed in the centre on which the flies alight and feed. By an early and active campaign of fly destruction, great trouble may be made upon this pest, and many valuable lives may be saved.

"Kick In"

As is indicated by the title, "Kick In" is a play with a punch. It was this punch which established the play as the most substantial success of last season in New York. It was this punch which caused an immense metropolitan press to greet "Kick In" with unqualified praise, which sent its fame broadcast throughout the country. No production of recent times has been so lavishly handled, and all who have had the pleasure of seeing it agree that every complimentary line written about it was fully deserved. It was this same punch which riveted the attention of theatrical managers of England and Australia, who immediately arranged for a presentation of "Kick In" in those countries, until at the present time it may be said that this Willard Mack masterpiece is being acted around the world. The United Producing Company has secured the company starring this place for one week only and so lucky managers will have an opportunity of offering their patrons this treat. It will be seen here on Saturday, June 10th, at the opera house.

Housing the Birds

As the result of a bird house contest conducted recently in Manitoba, fully 2,000 bird houses were made by the boys attending manual training classes in Winnipeg. An exhibition will be held and prizes awarded before the houses are placed in the trees throughout the city. By those familiar with the strong attraction of such houses for wild birds, the great value of this unique contest will be fully appreciated. In addition to testing the mechanical skill of the boys, it directs their energies to a splendid practical purpose, at the same time inevitably impressing upon them the importance of protecting and fostering bird life.

A competition of a similar nature is being conducted at Brockville, Ont., having been instigated, following an address on the subject, by Dr. Gordon Hewitt Dominion entomologist.

STRENGTH OF THE BRITISH IN THE WAR IS GREATER THAN DEFENSE WAR

AN ANSWER GIVEN TO SOME OF THE CRITICISMS

Mr. Balfour Presents Some Facts About the British Navy Which Are Calculated to Offset the Nervous Apprehensions In Certain Quarters

During the past few weeks there have been certain rumors that the navy, owing to want of foresight in a lack of driving force in the board of admiralty, was not in so positive a position of superiority as it had been supposed. Some naval "experts" who may, we think, be so quoted of any desire wantonly to undermine confidence in the navy, seem to have been infected by the disease of "cold feet." Thus because we were never before inclined to waver in their trust in the board of admiralty have been tempted, or at all events invited, recently to utter rather all too vague misgivings. Something more than vague misgivings has been disseminated widely, it is true, but it is rather a little more. We have heard that German dreadnaughts carried guns which would outrange even those of the "Queen Elizabeth," would burst forth from the Kiel Canal, and that they were ready to attack the British fleet. We have also heard that the "Hindenburg," the very one of the German fleet, was therefore time that the board was powerless over the navy, and that the admiralty was not in a position to prevent the German fleet from coming to the aid of the British fleet. But he did not utter an account of his stewardship, and he did not convince and reassure every man who can leave his home and go to sea. We have read a great many speeches on the subject of the navy, but never read speeches which seemed to us to be in a righter spirit than those of Mr. Balfour. He has given an explicit guarantee that everything is being done to ensure that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger.

It is very easy for a newspaper to invent its own particular bogey, or let us say, to believe in a particular bogey on the strength of a particular article or attractive evidence, and then to say, "Here we have a danger, and here we have a danger, and here we have a danger." But when we read the speeches of Mr. Balfour, we are struck by the fact that he never read speeches which seemed to us to be in a righter spirit than those of Mr. Balfour. He has given an explicit guarantee that everything is being done to ensure that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger.

They are much more numerous than six months ago. They are still stronger than they were twelve months ago, and still stronger than they were six months ago. We have seen the navy in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger.

It is a question of counting day, war is necessary and always is, and it is true, that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger.

Germany Has no Intention of Capturing this Country or the U.S. After the War

Recent despatches have brought word of statements in the German parliament and newspapers that Germany had no intention of capturing this country or the U.S. after the war. The statements were made in a conversation with Herr von Jagow, the German foreign minister, by the Associated Press correspondent.

"Can one people intend or believe such stories," he asked. "To any one who is not entirely blind, it is evident beyond doubt that Germany may never pursue such schemes and never conspire doing so."

"Can one imagine a state of affairs in Europe after the war such that we should have the leisure or a free enough hand to divert our strength and efforts to attack on the Atlantic coast?" he asked.

"I need hardly assure you such reports, which from time to time are repeated in the German press, are entirely unfounded. Germany has no intention of capturing this country or the U.S. after the war."

"It is unfortunately true that during the war, the German navy has been forced to fight a defensive war. But the German navy is now in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger, and that the navy is in a position to meet any danger."

A "Find" of War Took Him 36 Years to Become Colonel But Has Been Promoted Rapidly During the War

General Henri Philippe Petain, the defender of Verdun, is considered one of the great "finds" of the war. He was promoted to the rank of colonel in 1914, and has been promoted rapidly during the war.

"Among the consequences of the war," says a writer in the Paris Tribune of January 29, "there is one which is being much discussed these days and which undoubtedly will have grave effects upon society. It is the diminution of the adult male population. In Europe, a loss of eight to ten million men in the ages between 18 and 45 years certainly constitutes an enormous deficit which is liable to cause a great change in the European nations."

Mr. Arthur Girault, a professor at the University of Poitiers, has given a searching consideration to the question. He has come to the conclusion that the disturbed equilibrium in the numerical proportions of the sexes will cause a situation of a revolutionary character as far as social conditions are concerned.

"It will be the women's era after the war, for they are naturally those who will benefit by the disproportion which will exist between the sexes. They will be the ones who will be the most numerous, and they will be the ones who will be the most powerful."
